

Role: Youth Ambassador

There's no unity in the community without U and I.

Your voice is power. Your story is proof. Your future is purpose.

At Akima Charity, we're building a movement led by young people who've lived it, seen it, and want to change it.

If you've ever felt unseen, unheard, or underestimated — this is your space to rise.

About the Role

Akima's Youth Ambassadors are more than representatives — they're changemakers. You'll work with our team to shape how Akima reaches, supports, and empowers young people across the UK.

You'll help us turn pain into purpose, and opps into opportunities.

Ambassadors use voice, creativity, and leadership to bring Akima's mission to life — online, on the ground, and in their own communities.

What You'll Do

- Share your ideas and stories to help us design campaigns that speak to your generation
- Represent Akima at community events, school talks, podcasts, and creative projects
- Co-create youth-led workshops and awareness campaigns
- Be part of decision-making spaces — your opinions help shape Akima's direction
- Use your platform (or help us build one) to spread hope, truth, and healing

Who We're Looking For

- Young people aged 16–25 from all walks of life
- Those with lived experience of loss, trauma, community violence, or personal growth
- Creatives, advocates, leaders, or quiet thinkers — all kinds of voices are needed
- Passionate about making change, breaking cycles, and building unity

- Ready to show up with honesty, openness, and courage

You don't need experience.

You just need heart, consistency, and the will to rise.

What You'll Gain

- Personal and leadership development
- Access to training, mentoring, and creative opportunities
- Certificates and references for future education or employment
- The chance to speak, design, and lead on projects that matter
- A family of peers and professionals who see you and believe in you

Requirements

- Aged 16–25 (based in London or open to remote participation)
- Willing to commit to group meetings, training, and events
- Commitment to Akima's values: compassion, accountability, and unity
- Safeguarding awareness (training provided)
